Ms. Malin Söderström
Chef for the Nobel Banquet
(December 10, 2011)
Stockholm, Sweden

Dear Ms. Söderström,

I currently join your special collaboration dinner with Mr. Kiyonari Araki, Former Chef of Japanese Embassy in France and Executive Chef of the main restaurant in the Ritz-Carlton Hotel Tokyo. I appreciate if you could give me a time to talk with the officials of Embassy of Sweden in Japan and make a comment to you, as I did at Osaka University, on October 19, 2012.

Ms. Malin Söderström: First Female Chef for the Nobel Banquet in history (October 19, 2012) *This comment will be acknowledged by Mr. Lars Vargö, Swedish Ambassador to Japan.

Dr. Shida replies to Ms. Söderström

"The famous restaurant 'Anthony's Pier 4' in Boston has (or had) many pictures of VIP guests from the world and an unclean rest room. And the Stockholm City Hall where the magnificent Nobel Prize Award Party is held every December shows the restroom as the real dirty side to us like the inappropriate male-female relationships in the University of Tokyo in the Tokyo Metropolitan Area. Then it is too bad for Boston and Stockholm when the chairpersons come there from the world. They say that restaurants with clean rest rooms are first-class restaurants in Japan. Nobel Dinner Chef, four doctors who were graduated from the University of Tokyo protect their positions and salary, while making their inappropriate male-female relationships at their workplace in secret, and fired me four times. Yes, the levels of their humanity are low."

Sincerely,

Yukihisa SHIDA, M.D., Ph.D.
